Theme of Annual All-Campus Sing Is Announced

"Moonlight and Romance," has been selected for the theme of the annual ASOCE sponsored All-Campus Sing, scheduled for February 2, at 8 p.m. in the CH auditorium, according to Myrna Little chairman.

MYRNA LITTLE

Contest numbers by the Off-Campus, West hall, Arnold Arms, Todd hall, and Village living groups will be presented at the "Sing." Other skits and musical numbers will be given as added entertainment. Keith Jensen will see the program.

Entries this year are to be judged on originality, choice of song fitting in with the theme, and on presentation. A limit of 10 persons per group competing has been set.

First prize will be the addition of the name of the group to the Willis Love memorial trophy plaque. Last year's winners were a group of Third Front girls from Todd hall.

Dewey Newton Elected West Hall President

Dewey Newton was elected president during the recent winter term elections at West hall. Grant Kremers received the post of vice-president; Dave Hunter was re-elected secretary-treasurer, and Gene Rosaschi was named reporter.

Following the election of officers, plans were discussed for a house dance, set for February 4. Russell Saunders was elected to lead the house in the All-Campus Sing.

Students Anticipate Trips to 52 High Schools with Talent Assembly

Assembly programs of entertainment by OCE students to be presented to high schools in the area are being organized again this year, according to Barbara Makinster, chairman of the talent assembly committee.

The project is financed jointly by receipts from the spring term faculty play and ASOCE funds as a public relations service and is an educational experience for the various participants.

The tentative number of presentations is expanded this season to include 52 schools during 18 trips, spread over two terms instead of one term. A total of 26 high schools were visited in 11 trips last spring term.

Among those who have indicated a desire to participate in the program are the following:

Darrel Lunda, Elvera Kurtz and Chuck Keaton, one-act play; Arden Detering and Barbara Makinster, duet; Shirley Sal-

Coordinator Here for Conference on Project

Dr. Eugene E. Dawson, National Coordinator of the Project on Teacher Education and Religion visited Oregon College of Education for two days during the past week.

He conferred with the local advisory committee of the faculty on this project headed by Matthew R. Thompson, assistant professor of mathematics.

Oregon College of Education is one of 15 colleges in the country selected as pilot centers for exploring curricular modifications designed to provide prospective teachers better orientation in the area of developing moral and spiritual values.

Notice from Registrar

Students are requested by the registrar to note the following when making changes of program:

1. The student directory card in the library file must be corrected after making schedule change.

2. Saturday, January 15, was the last day to add a class or to make schedule changes without charge. After that date a charge of $1 will be made for each change.

Flemming Orem and Marimba Coming Today for Assembly

First assembly of the term will be today at 2:30 p.m. when Flemming Orem and his marimba will be featured in the CH auditorium.

At the age of 16, while still in high school, Mr. Orem started his career as a soloist with a series of programs on the Columbia Broadcasting Company. Later he had his own program on the NBC network.

Mr. Orem has appeared as soloist in many leading hotels throughout the country and in most of the legations and embassies in Washington, D.C., his home town. He has been featured with the J. B. Juraado Guatemala band that brought modern marimba to the United States.

Reportedly equally at home in any style, dance, classic or latin, Mr. Orem has studied the field of music in all its phases.

Editorial Board Gives June Ethell Title of Reporter of Term

JUNE ETHELL

June Ethell, sophomore from Gervais, has been named Lamron Reporter of the Term for Fall term, 1954, by the Lamron editorial board. She had no reporting experience previous to last term's work on the Lamron.

A reporter of the term will be chosen each term who will qualify to compete for Lamron Reporter of the Year, announced at the recognition dinner at the end of spring term.

Qualifications for Reporter of the Term and of the Year include the following:

1. Covers all assignments accurately and thoroughly and meets all deadlines.
2. Uses an effective journalistic style of writing.
3. Works cooperatively with editors and staff.

Students May Obtain Free X-Rays Here Soon

The mobile x-ray unit from the State Board of Health will be on campus Tuesday and Wednesday, February 1 and 2, across from the library on N. Monmouth Ave.

All students are expected to have chest x-rays taken at that time, unless they have had an x-ray since September 1, 1954, on file at the student health service in CH, according to Miss Edith Olson, college nurse.

Students who plan to teach soon may use this opportunity for a free x-ray to secure necessary teacher's health certificates. Faculty, staff and special cases referred by the County Health Department may also obtain x-rays during this visit of the unit.

Named To Committee

Opal Bradshaw has recently accepted a position on the social committee which works with Ann Hansen, ASOCE social commissioner in setting up and authorizing the social calendar.

A sophomore from West Linn, Opal replaced Virginia McCullen who did not return this term.

Committee Starts Work on Annual All-Campus Drive

Rosalie Harrold, student chairman for OCE's annual All-Campus Drive set for February 16-18, has announced that preparations have begun. Committee chairmen have been selected and plans are going forward for a tentative carnival, auction, dance and "kick-off" assembly.

ROSALIE HARROLD

Committee chairmen have been approved by student council and are as follows:

Mary Ann Peterson, assembly; Del Brown, carnival; Mary Woodworth, dance; Lavinia Luttrell, auction; Lila Mae Rice and June Ethell, publicity; and Pat Todd Harris, Glenda Hamar, Mary Woodworth and Phyllis Spreeman, planning committee. Faculty adviser for the drive is Dr. Robert Mulder, assistant professor of speech pathology.

The All-Campus drive will secure funds for the World Student Service, receiving 50%; Japanese International Christian University Foundation, Fund for Negro Students, Red Cross, Oregon Crippled Children Society and Polio Fund, all of which receive either 5% or 10% of the funds.

FTA To Elect Prexy

Future Teachers of America will meet Tuesday, January 18, at 8 p.m. to elect a president to fill the position left vacant by the absence of Ed Montgomery.

"Europe As I Saw It," is the topic of the meeting with Mary Ann Hudson Leavitt, Mrs. Pearl Heath, and Miss Mary Donaldson on the program.

Jakob Gimpel Concert On Slate at Corvallis

Jakob Gimpel, already known to a large movie audience through his playing of piano sequences for movies such as "Story of Three Loves" and "Too Young to Kiss," will be at Gill coliseum in Corvallis on Friday, January 28, at 8 p.m.

Mr. Gimpel's performance will be the first winter term concert of the regular series at OSC under the auspices of the Corvallis and OSC Civic Music Association, Inc.

OCE students will gain admission to the concert with presentation of student body cards. Notices will appear soon in the Lamron and on bulletin boards concerning bus transportation.

To Head Folks' Visit

Dee Ann Larimer, junior from Portland, was elected by student council to serve as chairman of Folks' Festival Weekend. The weekend, when OCE students host their parents for special entertainment here, is set for February 25 and 26.

Campus Christian Council To Decide Theme for Religious Emphasis Week

by Marilyn Neill

Religious Emphasis Week, set for April 4, 5, and 6, furnished the main topic for discussion at the January 12 meeting of the executive committee of the Campus Christian Council.

The following ideas were suggested as themes:

Pattern for Life (which could be subdivided into Our Place, Our Purpose, Our Peace.)

Religion in Life.

Christ—the Hope of the World (This is the theme used at the recent meeting of the World Council of Churches. Another suggestion to have something pertaining to missions could be tied in with this theme.)

God of the Ages (a presentation of the growth of the concept of God through the ages and the various manners in which God has revealed Himself to man.)

Any comments about these themes and any suggestions for other theme topics would be appreciated. The committee will meet again January 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the Ad. conference room.

CCC will sponsor two meetings prior to R-E Week, one in February and one in March. Dates and further details will be announced later. All students are welcome to participate in the activities of the Campus Christian Council, a new organization which was formed last fall through the cooperative efforts of the religious groups on the campus.

An Antiquated Mess!

Let's face it — the Oregon College of Education bookstore system is an antiquated mess. Much criticism lately has been voiced by students with the fact that so few people can be served at once, students must stand long periods of time in line to get their supplies, and no set system of distributing the books to students has been worked out. Sometimes a number system is used to limit purchases, but later in the day this has been discarded so a student who has waited for his number to come up is left out.

Another criticism is that it is possible to stand in line for perhaps two hours on registration day, then get to the window and find that the book you have been waiting to buy is out of stock, etc.

This slow ox-cart way of distributing books to students reached a climax in the recent registration fury. Students were given a half day to register and then attended classes the same afternoon. Many desired books to take along. As a result, about 600 students tried to buy books in one day and there was a mess.

On the average the bookstore can handle about one person every two or three minutes (We timed it). At this rate it would take 25 hours to handle the OCE total and you can see where this leaves you — at the end of the line tomorrow!!!

Why not set up a self-service system here? The books could be stacked on long tables in a large room and while students walked single file between the tables they could pick up the necessary texts in a matter of seconds. Books could be grouped on the tables according to section (humanities, science, etc.). Students would only have to follow their individual book list to easily and conveniently pick up the necessary book.

Also, the four people now employed to work in the bookstore during registration could all be kept busy all the time as they merely wrote you out a slip as used now and recorded the book rental number as you read it to them. (At present, if a customer takes time to ask a question, at least two people in the bookstore are temporarily idle, the cashier and the person who gets the books from the shelves.) Under a self-service system each person could handle one customer at a time and, perhaps, take care of his needs in one or two minutes.

Any attempted theft by students could easily be checked by having a narrow passageway both entering and leaving the room and allowing students to leave only by passing by and showing a receipt. Certainly if 600 students can satisfactorily register themselves in a half a day, why can't 600 students buy books in one day by means of a self-service system? —G.E.I.

Restricted TV Needless!

A modern addition to OCE dormitory life has been made with the installation of TV sets in Todd hall and Arnold Arms. We've heard comments, both pro and con, in regard to this action; but apparently the majority of the students living in the two dormitories are in favor of the sets as the proposal was submitted to them for approval before the installations were made.

One aspect of the plan, though, meets with some disfavor—the stipulation that TV is not to be viewed between the hours of 7 and 9 p.m., nor after 11 p.m. Many students find that some of their favorite programs are broadcast during these periods. Following the one month trial period the restriction may be lifted "if it is deemed unnecessary"; and after one term the 11 p.m. regulation will be lifted if insufficient use is made of the sets.

But we cannot help but wonder how the necessity of such a restriction as the 7-9 p.m. one can be determined as long as the restriction exists. We should think that a trial period without the stipulation might have been a more valid means of finding out whether or not it was necessary.

In considering this matter, the reason for the restriction must not be over-looked. Previous dormitory regulations had designated 7 to 9:30 p.m. as quiet hours for studying and complete quiet was to

Here we stand a brand new column and its chances of becoming a success almost immediately become nullified by competition!! Since the addition of television to Todd hall, the young lovers' activities have been sharply curbed. How can OCE students keep on doing things socially to keep this column filled if there is a constant throng of 30 to 40 keeping watch every evening on the happenings in the Todd living room???

More holiday news . . . . . Joe Roberts and Marilyn Forbes, both seniors at OCE, announced their engagement during the holidays. Joe is from Springfield and an all-conference football player. Marilyn is from Olex.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Summerfield welcomed a new member into their family Monday night, January 10. Miss Julie Ann Summerfield checked in at seven pounds 13 ounces at a Salem hospital. Elmer is a St. Helens senior and is student body first vice-president. Needless to say, he missed the Monday evening council session.

Senior Marilyn Dunn became engaged to Tom Beach, a Whitman graduate now in the army. The betrothal was announced on January 1 in Walla Walla. No date has been set for the wedding. Marilyn is from Salem and he is from Seattle.

Joan Fenlason, senior joint degree student from Oregon State college, became Mrs. Dick Mason December 27 in Phoenix, Arizona. He is a junior in business and technology at OSC. She is from Portland.

You may have noticed that last week we also had two OSC joint degree students who announced their engagement to business and technology majors at OSC. Perhaps these business and technology majors make better husbands or maybe it is just the prevail after 11 p.m.

However, in our opinion, the TV regulation is somewhat absurd since the maintenance of quiet hours does not guarantee that the students will study or sleep. After all, no attempt has been made in other areas to reserve the 7-9 p.m. period for studying. We are free to come and go as we please, and hardly a night passes but there is some meeting or activity (and most generally, several) to attend during these hours.

As college students we believe we are old enough to plan our own schedules. If we wish to study earlier or later (or not at all) and view TV between 7 and 9 p.m. or after 11 p.m., we think that should be our decision to make. —M.J.N.

Stan Hays, June, 1954, graduate, and his wife, Patty, are parents of an eight pound, eight ounce girl, Leslie Marie. The addition arrived January 7 in Portland. Stan is now teaching at Woodlawn school in Portland.

Reports so far show that OCE students racked up a total of 13 engagements during the past festive season. Its a good thing we have a few of these long vacations or perhaps this school would become depleted of unattached humanity.

Remember again that P.O. box 356 and any news or just happenings or incidents concerning students, faculty or alumni are welcomed.

Frosh Hoopers Bag Couple In 8 Contests

Gene Owen's Oregon College frosh hoopsters have compiled a 2-6 record in their contests through January 11. The two victories in the eight tussles were a 47-44 win over Ren's Drive in of Salem and a 63-46 triumph over Northwest Christian college of Eugene.

Don Ingalls, a lad from Alaska, tops the freshmen scoring to date with 88 counters for a 11.0 per game average. Larry Buss, 52; Bill Brown, 44; Craig "Pepper" Baker, 29; Barry Adams, 28; George Krash, 26; Harrison Bryant, 21; and Pete Barnes, 20, follow in that order.

WRA Opens Basketball Practice January 18

The Women's Recreational Association will start its basketball program Tuesday, January 18, at 6:30 p.m. when teams will be chosen. All girls, regardless of their ability, are invited to attend.

Girls wishing to earn their volleyball points for last term must pay their fall term dues to Shirley Carlo by January 20.

The Oregon Athletic Federation of College Women is having a leadership conference at Camp Magruder, Barview, on February 3, 4, and 5. A banquet, lectures, movies, and games are planned. The cost is $6.50 and transportation will be furnished. More information may be obtained by leaving a note in S.P.O. box 426 or by contacting Miss Ruth Lautenbach, WRA adviser.

OSC Leads Poll For Third Week

Slats Gill and his title defending Oregon State Beavers swept a pair of victories and all eight first place ballots in the third week of polling among Oregon College students. The sweep of the number one slots left the Beavers with 80 points and Washington second with 70.

Oregon moved from fourth to third by virtue of a pair of wins over Washington State. The Cougars slipped from third to fifth after losing four conference games and Idaho climbed to fourth after splitting with Washington. University of Portland and Seattle university traded slots again, this time the Seattle crew ranks sixth to the Pilots' seventh. Idaho State moved from tenth to eighth, displacing Pacific university, which dropped to twelfth after losing a close decision to College of Idaho in Caldwell.

Eastern Oregon's high scoring Mountaineers and College of Idaho tied for ninth spot. The Mountaineers bounced Southern Oregon twice in LaGrande, while the Coyotes were trimming Pacific in their first NWC battle, to climb from fourteenth slot.

It was a fine exhibition of the finer skills of basketball that the Harlem Roadkings brought to the local court Thursday night. They did not possess the color and clowning of the Harlem Clowns but their all-around skill was pleasing to the eye of those who came to see the expert basketball.

Eastern Oregon got their come-uppance Friday night 87-78 at the hands of the Oregon Tech Owls, which is the big surprise of the loop thus far. The defending champion Mountaineers were considered by many as walk-aways again this year and the Owls were pegged as cellar dwellers. Of course, the game was played in Klamath Falls.

It has taken a long time, but it looks as if Slats Gill has finally developed all of his potential talent into a real powerhouse or else Friday night was an extreme exception. That 66-38 win over Washington in Corvallis was rather convincing. Incidentally, those same Beavers rank second to the San Francisco Dons in defense in the nation with a 52 point per game average. The Friday night's 38 will bring that down.

It took 12 tussles and a lot of fight but "Ye Young Wolves" finally jumped into the win column Saturday night for the first time this season with a scintillating 69-66 victory over Portland State in the local arena. The win ended an 18 game loss skein for the Wolfpack which dated back to February 5, 1954, when the OC crew dumped PSC 62-57 in Monmouth. It also ended a drought of 10 straight OCC losses over the past two years.

Darrell "Mighty Mouse" Davis was the big hero of the tussle as he came on just past the halfway mark of the final chapter and sparked the victory. The humdrum activities of the early portion of the second half had lulled the crowd into a drowsy restlessness when suddenly the Wolves caught fire under the lead of Davis. Trailing 57-42, the local men narrowed the count to 63-60 with two minutes left with Ron Jones and Davis providing the scoring punch.

The Viks make it 66-60 and then Jones sunk a gift shot and a jump shot. Mouse followed with another from the field and the count was 66-65 with a little over a minute remaining.

Sharkey Nelson's flustered Staters couldn't score and Jones stole the ball. His lay-in attempt was no good but Wayne Young tipped it up and in to put the Wolves ahead for the first time in the game, 67-66.

Davis saved the narrow one-point margin with two out of four gift tosses in the final 45 seconds. It was a screaming madhouse for those final three minutes as the Oregon College rooters sensed that long sought for first win.

Ironically enough, Larry "Mr. Hustle" Chamberlain, the man who usually sparks the Wolfpack, was not around to see the victory he inspired. Larry received a nasty cut on his left eye in a scramble for the ball with four minutes left in the first half. The Monmouth lads, with Chamberlain leading the way, had narrowed the PSC lead to 30-29 at this juncture. For 20 minutes it looked as if that cut had cut the OC chances as they fell behind 31-41 at halftime and then sunk to the aforementioned 15 point deficit.

Jones topped the OC crew with 24 counters, while Jack Viskov collected a similar number for the losers. Radar Ron dunked 10 of his jump shots in 29 tries. Davis, who was hoisted to the Portland State's travel-wise Vikings toured to victory Tuesday evening over the Oregon College Wolves in the Lincoln high gym in Portland. It was the first conference appearance of the Vikings after a tour of the Far East.

The sprightly victors were minus two starters but Jack Viskov and Sil Hannon, a high school pal of Swede Halbrook, took charge early in the first half and led all the way after pulling ahead 9-8.

Another shift in the OC starting lineup saw Dale Andrich, Jack McRae, Bob Jones, Larry Chamberlain and Wayne Young start the fracas. Hard working Young topped the Wolves with 16 tallies. Chamberlain with 12, Jones with 11 and Ron Jones with 11, hit the double brackets.

Viskov topped the Vikings with 24 counters and Hannon had 18.

A look at the shooting percentages tells much of the story as the Portland lads hit .430 and the Monmouth crew managed a .286.

Ed Jones and his zebra-striped inmates of the basketball exhibition trail classed their way to a 69-58 win over the Oregon College Wolves in an exhibition go Thursday night.

Statistically, the game was as close as the result with the Wolves hitting 25 out of 77 from the floor and the Vikings 24 out of 71. From the gift line it was 29 of 33 for OC and 20 of 31 for the Staters. Monmouth picked up (Continued on page four)

Requirements and Background of Yearly Eloise Buck Award Reviewed

by Marilyn Neill

Literary lovers will be interested to learn that the Eloise Buck Award is to be made again this year for a short paper containing a discussion of an especially enjoyed masterpiece.

To be eligible for the award, a student must have been enrolled in at least one course in literature on the college level, and must have done better than average work in the course. He may choose a novel, a short story, a drama, an essay, or a poem, and in a paper of 800-1000 words show that he understands the exact idea or ideas which the author wished to convey and that he has some appreciation of the means used to convey these ideas.

He should include short quotations from the text, itself, which show the particular characteristics of the author's style that the student considers most notable. The work should contain the student's own thoughts, not something he has read about the masterpiece.

The award, which will be made at the annual spring term award dinner, was established in 1947 in memory of Miss Eloise Buck, a former member of the OCE English department who lost her life in an Atlanta hotel fire.

Instrumental in establishing the award were Miss Edna Mingus, professor emeritus, now residing in Salem, who was head of the English department here when Miss Buck was on the staff, and Miss Emma Henkle, a present faculty member.

Essays are to be submitted to Dr. Jane Dale of the English department by April 1. Judging will be done by a committee of impartial persons chosen by Miss Mingus. For further information regarding the contest, students may contact Miss Dale.

Winner of the first contest in 1947 was Richard Drinnon. Last year's winner was Iva Mae Speed, OCE senior from Salem.

Students receiving the awards in the past five years wrote papers on the following pieces of literature: "My Last Duchess," Browning; "The Barrel Organ," Noyes; "Ode: Intimations of Immortality" from Recollections of Early Childhood, Wordsworth; "Beat Beat Drums," Kipling; and "Dover Beach," Arnold.

PODdon Me . . .

by Harry E. Pease

The State Legislature is in session again and perhaps this question is a little late in being presented but let's pull out the problem of a new name for this college.

To propose a change of name might be heresy, treason or just plain premeditated suicide but there are several good reasons why such action should be considered.

We are no longer strictly a college of education, preparing elementary teachers. Progress has added to our curriculum degrees in liberal arts, secondary education and pre-professional work. We are not the same college we were 20 years ago, five years ago, or even one year ago. We are Oregon College of Education, but growth has made it more than just OCE.

Another minor but valid reason for change when the significance of the present name has been lost, is the clumsiness of the name Oregon College of Education. By the time you have and 10 syllables, a polite aslurred through those 23 letters quaintance usually loses interest and regrets the question.

Education has been dropped by the sports page of this paper almost entirely. The new basketball warm-up jackets have merely "Oregon College" across the back. College of Oregon, Monmouth State, Campbell State are but a few suggested names out of many possibilities.

Talk is fine but action brings more results. Possible procedure would be to contact the student council and propose action. If the students take the initiative then it first must be decided if a change of name is desirable by the majority. Then a vote would be required to decide upon a name. Approval of the faculty and administration would fit in here somewhere. Sanction of the State Board of Higher Education would help the cause considerably.

Actual experience in lobbying and legislative work would come from seeing the bill through the Legislature. That isn't the whole story, but most of it is there.

We, who are in elementary education, are proud to be teachers and to be attending this college. The fine name of this college in the field of preparing teachers comes from the results, that is, the teachers it produces. A college by any other name could produce as fine results.
